01:44:17 Gilly Leshed: The language of the proposal in the zoom poll is not the same as what is articulated

01:46:41 Paul Ginsparg: i don't understand this — the zoom vote pop-up showed more yes than no, meaning “yes to table” but that was reported as opposite (i.e., more not to table via zoom, as in person)

01:47:34 Ken Birman: @Jill Short could you perhaps just post the totals here on chat?

01:47:56 Gilly Leshed: The in-person vote was “do you support tabling” yes/no, and the zoom vote was “do you support the proposal” yes/no. These are opposite and may have caused confusion.

01:49:06 Eun-Ah Kim: We were told “proposal” is to “table”. So yes vote should mean the same for both.

01:49:18 Rachel Sandwell: Replying to "The in-person vote w..."

I agree that this is very confusing. I interpreted it as posing the same question as in room and voted accordingly - but maybe I was wrong?

01:49:26 Tobi Hines: Reacted to "We were told “propos...” with 👍

01:49:29 Paul Ginsparg: yes “the proposal” meant “the proposal to table”, and more on zoom voted yes than no according to the popup, but it was reported as opposite

01:49:53 Eun-Ah Kim: Reacted to "yes “the proposal” m..." with 👍

01:50:53 Rachel Sandwell: Reacted to "yes “the proposal” m..." with 👍

01:53:27 AV SUPPORT: On Zoom: 22 yes, 20 no + in person: 9 yes, 16 no. final total: 31 yes, 36 no.

01:54:32 Ken Birman: Thank you!

01:59:54 Bryan L. Sykes: Thank you!
